

BS Biotechnology minor Regulatory Sciences,
Head of Operations (COO)

Joseph Kauten

Joe Kauten (1976) was appointed COO of BioAtrium in February 2023.

Joe has held multiple positions within several companies, including Operations, Technology and MSAT. He has lead global projects and functions in US, EU, UK, and Singapore.

Prior to joining BioAtrium, he was CTO for a Swiss cultivated meat startup, designing the scale-up, commercialization, and overall operational strategies.

Joe started his career in the United States, in Operations and MSAT at Lonza, before moving to Shire and managing business and operations performance for the Biologics Operating Unit (21 products produced across 8 internal sites and 22 external partners.) He then relocated to Switzerland to assist Incyte Biosciences in building their first biologic manufacturing facility, as Head of Upstream Manufacturing, and Global Head of Technology and Process Transfer. Joe also established a senior management and operations consultancy assisting multinational biologics and startup companies with starting and improving ongoing operations and performance.

Joe holds a Bachelors of Science in Biotechnology, with a Minor in Regulatory Sciences from Northeastern University, Boston, MA, United States.

Joe is a citizen of the United States
